

Sven the Cactus presents...

Word Adventures

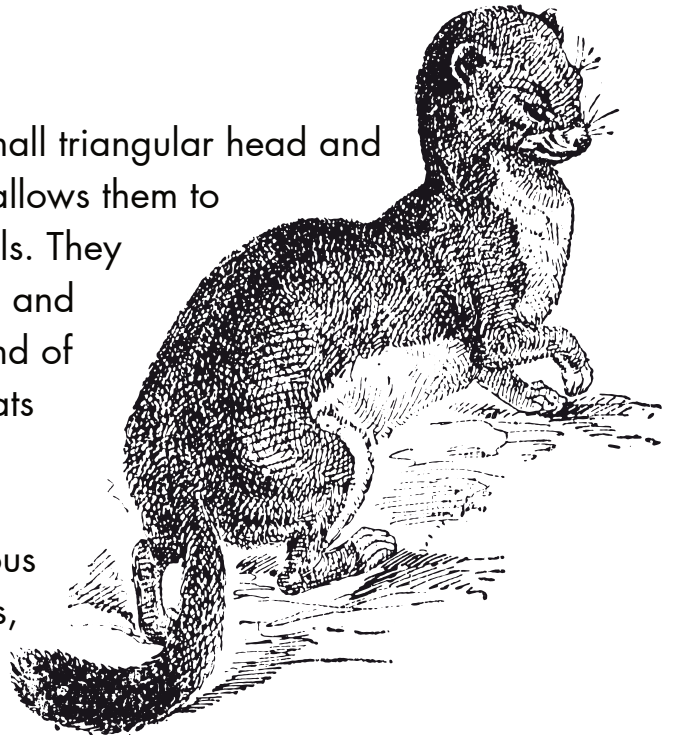

The word of the week is:

Commonly referred to as the short-tailed weasel, in scientific terms these animals are known as Mustela Erminea and are members of the Mustelidae family.

Stoats have an elongated body with a small triangular head and a uniform, symmetrical body shape that allows them to follow prey into narrow burrows or tunnels. They typically have brown fur with a white bib and underbelly with a black tip on the very end of their tails. But during winter climates, stoats can grow a pure white coat.

These animals are flexible and adventurous predators. They usually live in woodlands, grasslands, and moorlands in cool and temperate regions.

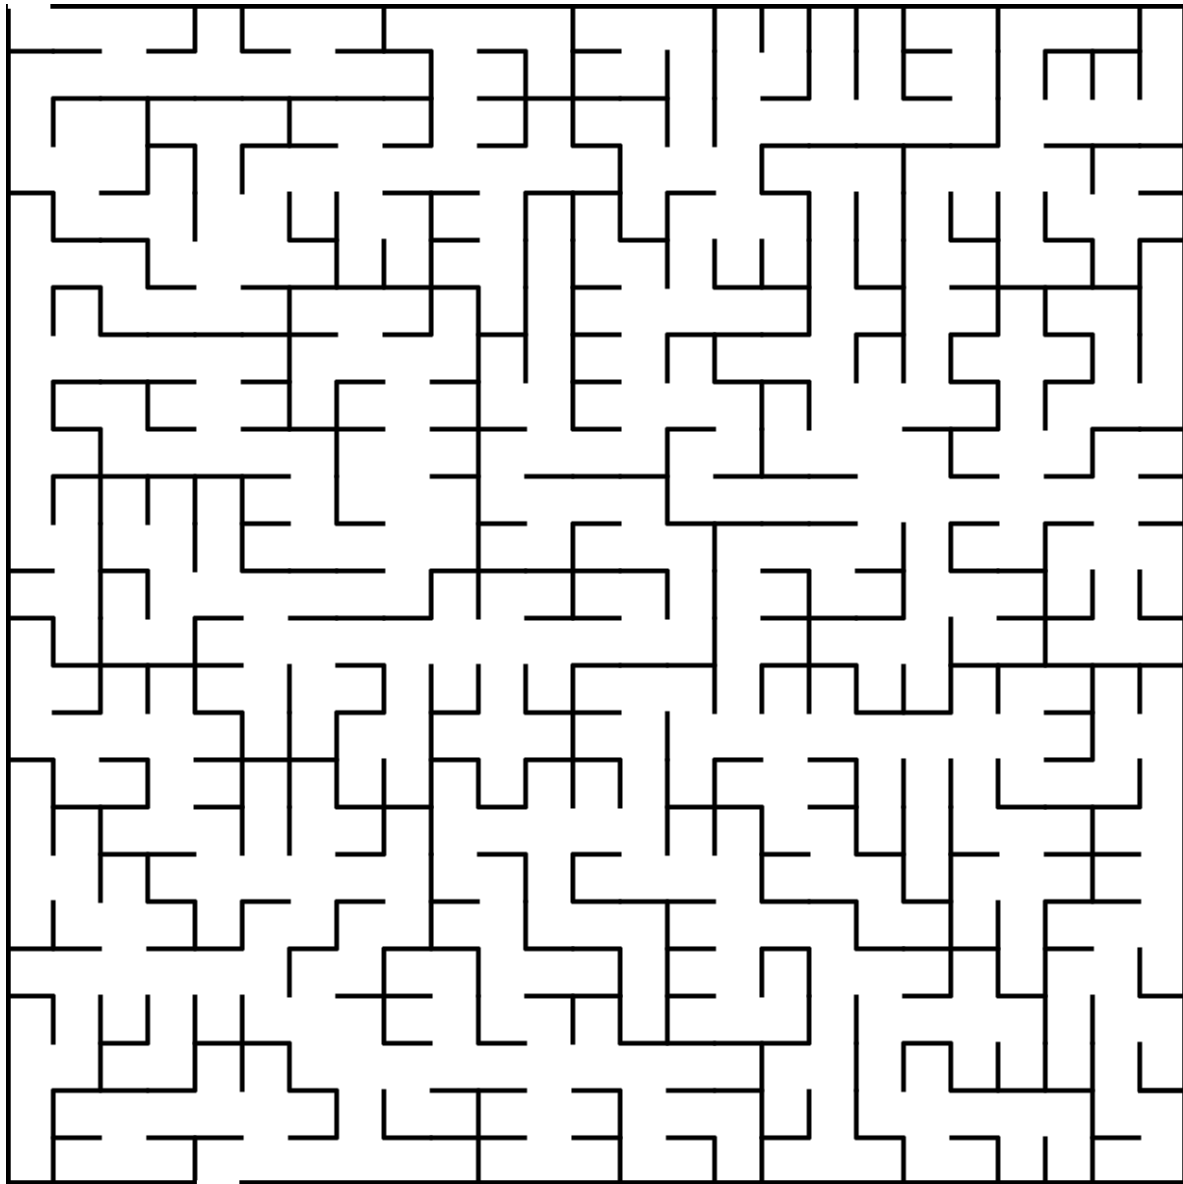

Word Adventures: Stoats

Activity of the week: Maze

Start

Finish

Copyright © SvenTheCactus 2024. All Rights Reserved.

www.sventhecactus.com